ANGELO. Lady, the daylight's precious!
Please you turn to me! In my picture here
I've tried to image how the ivory shoulder
Leads the white light off from the arching neck—
But cannot, for the envious sleeve that hides it,
Please you, displace it.

ISABELLA. Sir, you are too bold!

ANGELO. Pardon me, lady! Nature's masterpiece
Should be beyond your hiding, or my praise.
Were it less marvellous, I were too bold—
But there's a pure divinity in beauty
Which the true eye of art looks on with reverence,
Though like the angels, it were all unclad!

	In the forest of Sherwood—Gurth the Swineherd and Wamba the Jester, Serfs of Cedric the Saxon, are driving homeward their masters' herds of swine. The Templar Brian de Bois Guilbert and Prior Aylmer overtake them and enquire the way to Cedric's. Irritated by Gurth's evasive answer, the Templar is about to strike him, and the Swineherd lays his hand on his knife;—but the Prior interposes and prevents the collision. Gurths' dog Fangs is ready to join in the fray. In the background are seen the Knights' squires—his led war-horse—his Ethiopian attendants, and the Priors retinue of Monks, &c.

101	Indians Bathing—a scene of New England	D. Sears, Esq.	H. C. Pratt
	The Indian mother, with her joyous child Sits [illegible] fondly, on the sandy shore; The maidens sport, amid the waters wild, Nor fear the warwnoop's scream or cannon's roar. The summer twilight sweetly onward creeps, O'er crag, and tree, and Lake, and gushing stream. The forest foliage, calmly silent, sleeps, And [illegible] all is spread the evening's golden gleam.

112	Hagar and Ishmael in the desert—Genesis chapter xxi - - -	For sale	P. Harry
	Hagar has recovered from the despondency caused by the thought that Ishmael is about to die of thirst and exhaustion. She has heard the voice of the "Angel of God" calling to her: "Arise, lift up the lad in thine hand, for I will make him a great nation." Still struggling between hope and fear, she obeys the voice, but is supposed not yet to have discovered the "well of water" which is to relieve the sufferings of herself and boy.

	"Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah; and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll of a book."—Jeremiah xxxvi. 4.
123	The Tomb of Christ - -	- -	G. Hollingsworth
	First figure is the angel, who says: "He is not here, he is risen," and pointing to the grave clothes: "come and see the place where the Lord lay." Next to him is Mary Magdalene. She,—enthusiastic and loving in her nature, is the first to hurry into the sepulchre; but, perceiving the angel, she shrinks under a sense of her guilt, and falls into the arms of the mother of Christ, who, though full of sorrows, is conscious of her dignity and worth, and stands erect and fearless. The other Mary falls upon her knees in humility and bows in reverence before the divine messenger.
